Terror, Death Behind U. S.'s Bulgarian Break

Move Is Aimed To Better Treatment Of Envoys To Satellites

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—(AP)—State Department officials expressed hope today that the American diplomatic break with Bulgaria will bring improvement in the treatment of U. S. diplomats and their local employees in other Russian satellite countries.

A tragic tale of police terror and death lay behind the Bulgarian break. It was not clear here that American officials and their native aides have been victimized to the same extent in other Communist nations. There was no immediate indication of a further break with any of those nations.

There was, however, speculation on the possibility of rupture in American relations with Hungary eventually, as a result of the conviction there of Robert A. Vogeler, an American businessman accused of being a spy against the Red regime in Budapest. Vogeler was sentenced to 15 years in prison.

Within a few hours after the action against Bulgaria yesterday, the State Department attacked Hungary's handling of the Vogeler trial. The department said the trial was "devoid of justice, inadequate as to evidence and replete with falsehood." Vogeler's conviction, the department said, is the beginning in Hungary of "political persecution and acts of injustice to citizens of foreign nationality."

About the same time as the blast at Hungary was issued, the State Department disclosed the secret details of American efforts to protect its last Bulgarian translator at Sofia against probable death at the hands of the Communist authorities. Apparently efforts to save the life of this man, Michael Shipkov, had delayed action on the actual break until yesterday.

Last summer the Bulgarian police, according to State Department disclosures, seized three

Unique Program Set For Band Concert

Careful preparation and a varied program indicates one of the most entertaining concerts in the history of the Quaker City Band will be presented at 8:15 p. m. Thursday in the High School auditorium.

Ceremonies by the American Legion color guard and Memorial Squad will precede the first number by the band. John Herman, Jr. is in charge of this detail.

Director George Chappell will conduct a 60-man band through nine selections. The "Four Notes," Leetonia male quartet, will be heard in a group of vocal numbers in the intermission.

Bandsmen Chester Brautigam and William Rankin have selected "Till's Serenade" for a horn and flute duet. Atty. A. L. Fitch is the narrator for the concert.

The program for the annual Winter Concert includes: a march, "Tenth Regiment," by Hall; overture, "Semiramide," by Rossini; favorite classic, "Humoresque," by Anton Dvorak; and a march, "Band of America," by Paul Lavelle.

Part Three numbers by the band are: a march, "Thunder and Blazes," by Fucik-Laurendeau; largo from the "New World Symphony," "Going Home," by Dvorak; a popular arrangement, "Brass Band Boogie," by Lang, and the selection, "The Sunny South," by Garrison. A short ceremony by the color guard and the "Star Spangled Banner," by the band, will conclude the program.

Reilly School Pupils Learn Art Of Pottery Making At An Early Age

REILLY school children have become a part of this area's pottery prominence, in a junior way, since the school acquired an electric kiln.

The children use it regularly to harden the varied clay objects made during class sessions.

Pupils in kindergarten, through the sixth grade, use the model kiln especially designed for use in schools and homes. The kiln was secured by the pupils through their collection of sales tax stamps. "Products" of the young ceramists include animals, ash trays, beds, button boxes, paper weights and doll furniture.

The children paint the hardened clay with water colors over which shellac may be placed to give an Indian-craft effect. Soon the pupils will paint the objects with professional glaze-paint and after refiring the objects will resemble clay objects found in every home.

Magidoff Town Hall Speaker

Writer Here Friday
To Tell of Russia

Robert Magidoff, an American correspondent in Russia for 12 years, will tell the story behind his sudden ouster from that country when he speaks at the Salem Town Hall meeting Friday night at 8 in the Salem High School auditorium.

Russian-born Magidoff came to the United States as a boy, became an American citizen, attended New York schools and the University of Wisconsin. Following his graduation he returned to Russia and worked as an American correspondent. He first joined the Associated Press and later became Moscow correspondent for the National Broadcasting Co., a post he held for seven years until his expulsion.

Mr. Magidoff has contributed articles to the New York Times Sunday Magazine, This Week, Liberty, Survey Graphic and others.

During his 12 years in the Soviet Union, Robert Magidoff traveled extensively throughout European Russia and the rest of the Soviet empire. He covered World War II from inside Russia. He made trips to Poland, Hungary, Rumania, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia and Finland after the war.

In the spring of 1948 his summary expulsion from the Soviet Union on suspicion of espionage created a sensation in the American press. Completely unfounded, the "spy" charge was never officially investigated by Soviet authorities. Mr. Magidoff believes his exile was but another example of the all-out propaganda campaign the Kremlin is waging among its people to discredit America and Americans.

Teachers, Junior High PTA Sponsors Dr. Humbert Talk

Dr. Russell J. Humbert, pastor of Youngstown Trinity Methodist Church, will speak on "Our British Cousins Through American Eyes" at 8 p. m. Monday in the High School auditorium.

The meeting is co-sponsored by members of the Salem Teachers Association and members of the Junior High Parent-Teacher Association. The public is invited.

His talk will be based on knowledge garnered in a two-month trip through the United Kingdom this past summer. Loren Early, principal of Fourth Street School, will introduce the speaker.

The Junior High School orchestra will play a pre-program concert.

City, County Plan Go-Ahead On Old Project

Commissioners Said
To Favor Road Along
Pa. Railroad Tracks

Two important developments reached the floor of city council Tuesday, a request from city non-elective employees for a pay increase and a hint from the streets committee that relief for a part of the city's traffic problem is in the offing.

The pay matter came in the form of two politely worded petitions from workers in the safety and service departments asking for more money "to meet our increasing debts." No amount of increase, by per cent or otherwise, was stipulated. The service department document had 26 signatures, including that of Director F. K. Wilson. The safety department petition was signed by 20 workers, with a written approval and endorsement by Director C. E. Phillips.

Council referred the petitions to its finance committee for study.

Regarding the traffic relief, Chairman Carl Abe reported that preliminary negotiations are under way with the county commissioners and the state highway department to complete the long-proposed truck cut-off from the Lisbon road, just south of the Pennsylvania tracks, to S. Ellsworth ave.

Abe said his committee, City Engineer F. S. Barckhoff and Mayor Harry Vincent had talked the problem over with the commissioners (the county owns a right of way 80 feet wide along this area) and found them most willing to develop the project as originally planned about 12 years ago.

No definite action has been taken, but Abe said further negotiations and arrangements will be completed in later consultation. No definite arrangement of the financing of the project was mentioned last night, but it is understood that the city will have some interest in that phase.

The cutoff would send some of the heavy truck and highway traffic around the main business area, re-routing it to town from S. Ellsworth ave. at the Pennsylvania depot up to the business section.

Street Rumpus Aired

Councilman Ned Massa reported that he has received some "violent" complaints from residents of Arch st., west of Sharp ave., on alleged faulty street paving done there. Massa said a resident took him out to the area and pointed out big holes in the new pavement and signs of more caving in. The pavement is broken, Massa related, and varies in thickness from two to six inches in places he was shown.

He said one resident said he improvements or will refuse to pay

2 Men Hospitalized As Car Hits Train

Two of five men involved in an auto-train accident were injured at 6:10 p. m. Tuesday, just east of Boardman on Route 224.

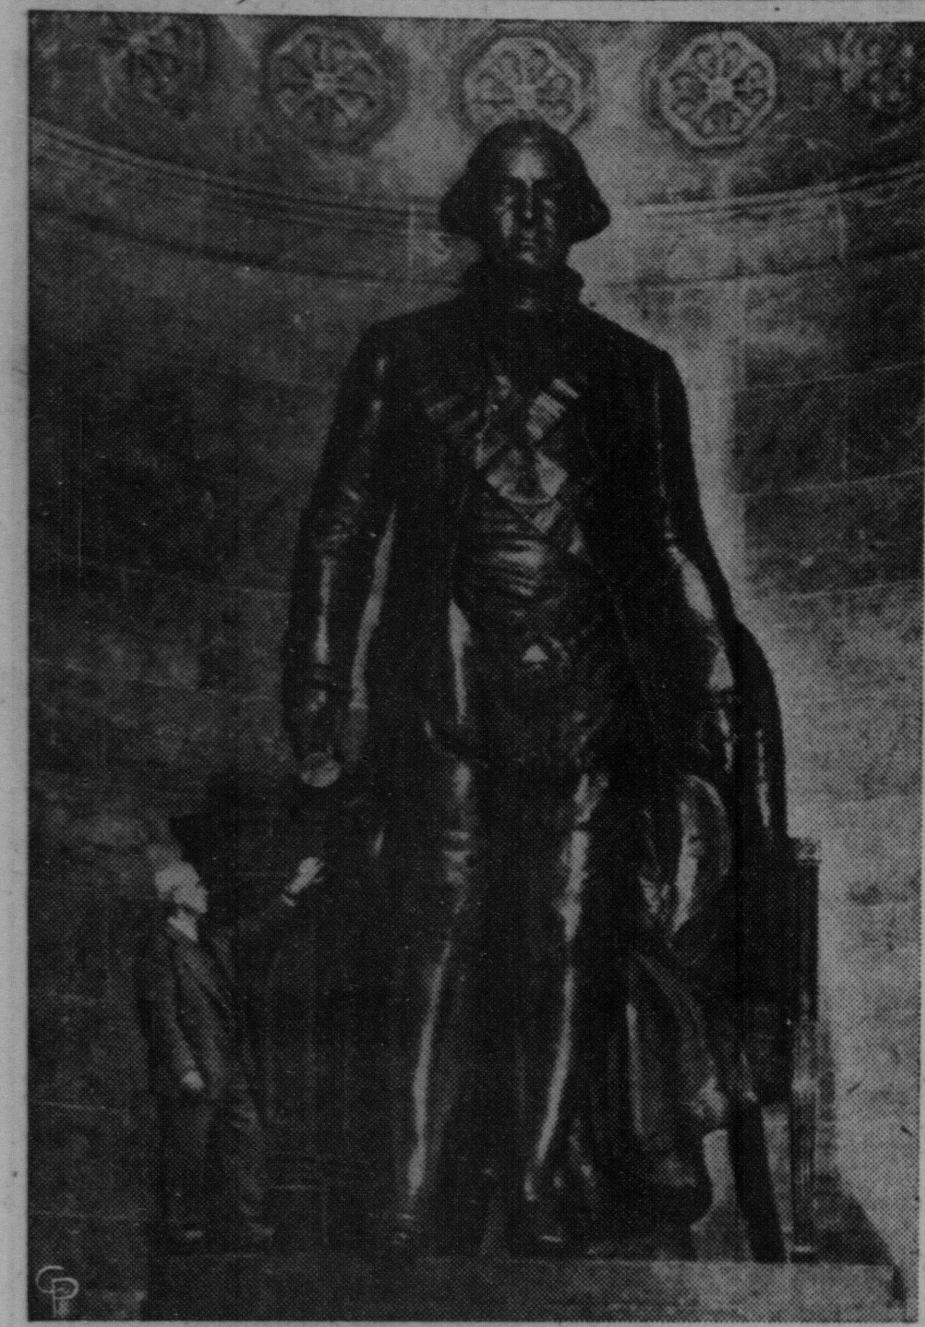

Robert Morgenstern, 46, of Sharon, Pa., told Salem state patrol he was driving west on route 224 and did not see the approaching steam train until he was almost at the crossing. The car slid and was pinned between a power pole and the train.

Norman Morgenstern, 21, of Sharon received a fractured arm and Norman Clark, 27, of Orangeville has contusions of the head. The driver and two other passengers were unhurt. The injured were taken to a Sharon hospital for treatment.

The car was heavily damaged and the train had to wait until the wreckage was removed. There are no lighted signals at the crossing.

Prosecution Won't Ask Death Penalty For Dr. Sander

MANCHESTER, N. H., Feb. 22—(AP)—An all-male jury was completed today for the "mercy killing" trial of Dr. Hermann Nelson Sander on charges that, to cut short her suffering, he murdered a woman patient doomed by cancer.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Feb. 22—(AP)—The State of New Hampshire is not going to ask the extreme penalty in the "mercy death" murder trial of Dr. Hermann N. Sander.

County Prosecutor William H. Craig disclosed last night the government did not plan to seek death by hanging—the maximum sentence for murder in the first degree—in the case of the 41-year-old country doctor.

The state charges Dr. Sander hastened the death of Mrs. Abbie Borroto, 59-year-old incurable cancer patient, by injecting air into her veins.

Unless the prosecution asks for the most severe punishment, the jury—not yet completed—cannot make such a recommendation.

Under New Hampshire law death by hanging is imposed only on the jury's recommendation. Otherwise, the penalty for conviction of first degree murder is life imprisonment.

Craig is assisting Attorney General William L. Phinney in prosecuting the case on which world-wide attention is focused. He said an agreement had been reached, even before selection of prospective jurors began, not to ask the death penalty.

Two Women, Infant Hurt In Car Mishap

Mrs. Albert Borton, 21, of 224 S. Broadway is in fairly good condition today at City Hospital following injuries received in an accident at 3:30 p. m. Tuesday at the junction of Routes 7 and 46, southeast of Columbiana.

She was a passenger in the car driven by her husband, Albert Borton, which was hit by a car driven by William Sakas, 27, of R. D. 1, North Lima.

Michael Borton, infant son of the Bortons, received contusions of the head and Mrs. Helen Sakas, 26, wife of William Sakas, received lacerations of the head and facial abrasions.

Mrs. Borton received a severely lacerated forehead. Mrs. Sakas and the Borton child also were taken to City Hospital, but were released.

Borton was going south on Route 7 and Sakas was going west on Route 46. Sakas failed to observe the stop sign, state patrolmen said. The front and both sides of the Borton car were damaged and the right side of Sakas' car was smashed.

Firestone Legion Holds Banquet

4 Columbiana Groups Participate In Affair

COLUMBIANA, Feb. 22—Benjamin Firestone Post No. 290, American Legion, of Columbiana, celebrated Monday evening in connection with its annual Washington's birthday banquet, the 31st anniversary of its organization in 1919.

John S. Rachune of Minerva, chairman of the American committee of the Tenth District, Ohio Department of the Legion, was the speaker. Participating in the banquet were four other civic organizations, the Chamber of Commerce, the Booster Club and the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs. There were 210 present.

"Is Hating Communism the Remedy?" was the subject of Mr. Rachune's address, in which he advocated that the American people should have the fullest information on the subject, even to the extent of properly supervised instruction in the schools. To combat it effectually, he said, it is essential that people learn all they can on the subject.

Mr. Rachune credited the American Legion with being a pioneer in the fight against Communism, the Legion having begun in 1920 to wage war against it. In number of Communists, Ohio ranks fifth among the states, he added.

The speaker told all about Communists in the State Department and in other departments of the government and compared resources and conditions in this country with those in Russia. He praised radio commentators for their exposures of subversive activities which imperil freedom in the United States.

A question-and-answer period followed the talk.

Fred Fritsch, commander of Firestone Post, presided at the banquet and welcomed guest organizations. Rev. Waldo J. Bartels of Grace Evangelical and Reformed Church said table grace, and Ray J. Miller led group singing, with Leo Holloway at the piano.

President George W. Seederly of the Chamber of Commerce announced the election being held by the chamber. Members are to send in their ballots to the secretary, John L. Hutson, to reach him not later than Saturday, March 11. Seederly also announced the community Lenten services to be held in Grace Evangelical and Reformed Church every Thursday evening during Lent, beginning this week.

President Grant Bevington of the Booster Club announced that its membership drive is in progress. A goal of 300 has been set.

President William Longshore of the Kiwanis Club announced that Superintendent H. F. Richmond will be program chairman next Monday evening.

Paul Ross, manager of the machine shop division of the National Rubber Machinery Co., will be Rotary Club program chairman next Monday evening, President William Knuth announced.

After the formal part of the evening, guests were shown through the newly remodeled Legion home, which will be open for public inspection during open house Saturday from 2 p. m. to midnight.

HAVE HOPE FOR GIRL

CLEVELAND, Feb. 22—(AP)—A seven-year-old girl, who remained in a coma for five weeks, was given a fair chance today of recovering. The youngster, Barbara Van Flandern, received a severe brain hemorrhage when she was struck by an automobile. Doctors at Berea Community Hospital disclosed yesterday that she had regained consciousness.

Hurt Ohio Services

CLEVELAND, Feb. 22—(AP)—The Ohio Bell Telephone Co. had a new interim contract with 14,500 of its workers today, but the threat of a statewide phone tieup still remained.

The CIO - Communications Workers of America have called a strike for 6 a. m. Friday against the Western Electric Co. and five other subsidiaries of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

If the walkout is not averted, some 600 Western Electric installers and sales division workers in Ohio are expected to strike and set up picket lines.

Thomas C. Ryan, president of the CWA in Ohio, said this probably would result in Ohio Bell unionists refusing to cross the picket lines.

"It has been a policy of the union not to cross picket lines of any union," said Ryan last night, "there has been no change in this policy."

Edgar H. Gustafson, vice president of Ohio Bell, sounded a more hopeful note.

He said there is "no good reason why Ohio shouldn't continue to be an island in the sea of turmoil." He also added that he felt the agreement had "lessened the prospects" for a state tieup.

The contract has no specified expiration date and can be terminated by either party on 60 days' notice. It extends all wage and working conditions covered in the company's agreement with the old Ohio Federation of Telephone Workers.

The OFTW was succeeded by the CWA, which recently was certified as the bargaining agent for Ohio Bell employees.

Coverage under the agreement also has been extended to workers in the commercial, directory, engineering, financial and administrative departments.

Veteran Leader Hits 'One Man' Campaign

WARREN, Feb. 22 — (AP)—Warren Garrison 224 of the Army and Navy Union wants Gov. Frank J. Lausche to halt what it describes as a "one-man campaign" against Veterans' Canteens by Anthony Rutkowski, state liquor enforcement chief.

Theodore R. Saker, commander of the Garrison here, said heads of 22 other garrisons in northeastern Ohio were being invited to meet here Sunday to plan action against the liquor official.

He said his own group was taking the initiative since it does not have a canteen or liquor permit and has not been "rapped" by Rutkowski.

The enforcement chief recently asked that the 22 garrisons be refused private liquor permits on grounds they were not operating as bona fide clubs.

Saker said formation of a protest group to see the governor would be undertaken at the session.

Court Dissolves Order On Cedar Point

SANDUSKY, Feb. 22—(AP)—Common Pleas Judge Edmond H. Savor of Erie county has sustained a motion to "dissolve and vacate" a temporary restraining order recently granted against operators of Cedar Point resort on Lake Erie.

Motion to vacate the injunction was brought by the G. A. Boeckling Co. of Sandusky, operators of the resort, and Bernhard G. Zeiher, also of Sandusky.

The order, granted last week to Hiltrude E. Carrigan, Mansfield, O., had checked an attempt by the company to lease the extensive resort property and facilities to T. H. Melrose, Cleveland hotel man, and associates, for 10 years, beginning this summer.

Squelch That Squeak!

This diagram should help you diagnose and cure a stair squeak.

By BOB SCHARFF
Written for NEA Service

A SQUEAK is always annoying, whether it comes from new shoes or old stairs. But there is no need for squeaky stairs, for they can be quickly silenced.

When stairs are built, wedges are fitted and glued into the stringer to support the ends of the treads. But constant wear sometimes makes them slip out of place, leaving the tread unsupported and noisy.

If it is possible to get at these wedges from under your stairs, tap them back into place and anchor them with a small nail. If, however, you can't reach the wedges, toenail the tread to the stringer, set the nail, and fill the hole with wood putty or stick shellac.

Sprung or warped treads are another common cause of squeaky stairs. A creak of this nature can be taken out by securing the tread to the riser.

With someone standing on the tread to force it down against the riser, drive three or four 2-inch finishing nails through the tread into the riser from opposite angles. The nails should be driven under the surface of the wood with a nail set and the holes filled with crack filler or wood putty.

If you can work under your stairs, fasten a strip of hardwood securely to the riser about 1/4 inch below the tread. Screws driven up through this strip into the tread will draw the loose board back into place. Pair the screws into the tread near each one driven into the riser.

It is also possible to eliminate squeaks in stairs that are not tongue and grooved, by driving a thin wooden wedge into the joint between the tread and riser. This requires the removal of the molding under the overhanging front edge of tread to expose the joint, and its replacement after cutting off the wedge flush with the front surface of the riser.

Basement stairs often are constructed with open risers, the treads being nailed between stringers and resting on cleats nailed into the stringers. Sometimes these cleats will work loose and if not nailed back, the tread will drop down, making the stairs dangerous to use.

Open riser stairs should be inspected occasionally to avoid accidents. The nailing of the stringers at the upper level should also be checked.

Q—The paint on walls of my new home is changing in color in spots. What is the cause and how can it be overcome?—H. R.

A—It is caused by unslaked lime in the plaster and can be prevented by brushing the plaster with a solution of zinc sulphate and water (1 or 2 lbs. to 1 gal. of water). New plaster, less than a year old, should always be treated like this before being painted.

Gold Standard Return Urged

Sen. Cain Pleads
It's Answer For U. S.

CHICAGO, Feb. 22—(AP)—Senator Cain (R-Wash.) called today for the United States to return to the gold standard to assure that it has "honest dollars."

Cain, in an address prepared for the National Association of Home Builders, said that during and after the war the nation's economy suffered unprecedented distortions. Not the least of these, he continued, is the great increase in public debt and the "prodigious growth" in our money supply.

"These cannot be restored to prewar levels without deflationary pressures so rigorous as to undermine our economy," Cain said. "The operation could be successful but the patient in the process might also die. It is not necessary to run this risk."

"Let gold for a period of time be traded freely in an open market. Let buyers and sellers from all parts of the world match values. Over a period of time a price for gold will emerge which has stood the test of market action. Let Congress take such price for gold and use it to reestablish the dollar on a firm base of gold."

Cain told the Association: "Your Congress looks to America for advice and assistance concerning what you want done. If you want money which is hard, reliable, and honest I would urge you to give your very lives if necessary to attain it." "Sound American homes and sound American dollars are inseparable. If you lose one you are certain to lose the other." From 1873 until 1933 the United States was on the gold standard. A nation is on the gold standard when its money is redeemable on demand at a fixed weight of fine gold. The departure from the gold standard was an early move of Franklin D. Roosevelt in the depression of the 1930's.

Custom-Tailored Evidence

THE CLEAN diplomatic break with Bulgaria, together with the sentencing of Robert A. Vogeler by a Hungarian court to 15 years imprisonment following his conviction on spy charges, tides up some of the diplomatic confusion in the Balkans.

Vogeler, an American businessman working for International Telephone and Telegraph Co., was convicted, together with other members of his staff on what plainly was trumped up evidence. Death sentences were given two of his associates who had the misfortune to be native Hungarians.

The Bulgarian break was precipitated by a government accusation against the U. S. minister in Sofia of conspiring against the state. The United States had warned the government of Bulgaria that relations would be terminated unless the accusation were withdrawn.

The logical course now would be to sever relations with every puppet government whose actions show that the Kremlin has no desire to continue them. There is no reason why Americans should suffer calculated indignities for the accommodation of the Kremlin in the Balkans or anywhere else. It takes two parties to maintain diplomatic relations. If Russia chooses not to maintain them, there is nothing for the United States to do but break them off.

Variations On A Theme

MR. JUSTICE FRANKFURTER, approaching three-score and ten years, seized an occasion in the Supreme Court last Monday to give his associates on the bench some judicial advice.

Referring to a majority ruling which ran contrary, in his opinion, to both the sense and the tradition of constitutional law, he said:

"Especially ought the court not to reinforce the instabilities of our day by giving fair ground for the belief that law is an expression of chance—for instance, of unexpected changes in the court's composition and the contingencies in the choice of successors."

Mr. Justice Frankfurter was appointed to the Supreme Court during an administration which contended that judges should follow the election returns. He had played a prominent part in the development of a government which contended that victory at the polls was a mandate for policies which voters never had heard discussed. But in recent years, his point of view seems to be shifting from the variations of politics—"the instabilities of our day"—to the jurisprudence. Judicial responsibility has cleared his vision. He now sees that liberty has no protection from the whims of men who follow election returns.

Liberty finds security only in the spirit and the letter of the laws written for its protection—written for the express purpose of offsetting the whims of politicians.

They Didn't Understand

AFTER the decisive battle of Yorktown, which established George Washington's military leadership, he was dealt one of the hardest blows of his unselfish career.

A plan was submitted to him by his own followers to seize what seemed to them an ideal opportunity to make him a king. His soul was shaken by this betrayal of everything he had been trying to attain for his countrymen. He scarcely could believe that such an idea was possible. They didn't understand, after all, what the Revolution had won for them.

But he was not swayed from his personal devotion to the cause of freedom. At the risk of precipitating rebellion in his own army, he blistered the traitors to American liberty with a scathing denunciation. Once more he met the challenge to his personal leadership; once more he dealt courageously with the fact that freedom without fearless men as its trustees is a doomed cause.

That is the greatest reason why George Washington still is a vital symbol in America—because he was among the first to understand and to act upon the obligation of leadership which dares to deny the impulse of some human beings to enslave themselves anew at each moment of release.

200 Days A Year

AT THIS POINT in the mine dispute, one fact which is still being ignored controls the ultimate outcome of the dispute. It is being hinted at in the bargaining demand of United Mine Workers for a 200-day guaranteed work year for coal miners.

Temporarily, the national need is for more coal to avert a coal famine, the strategy of slow-down to precipitate a crisis at last has brought results. But permanently there is the opposite of a coal famine to plague mine operators and their employees. If all miners were to return to work immediately, thereby averting a coal famine, the permanent problem would be back in full force by springtime. Mine mechanization stimulated high labor costs and competition from other fuels, whose use has been stimulated by the high price of coal and uncertainty about the supply, has created a problem of over production.

The three-day week imposed by United Mine Workers was an attempt to come to grips with the problem of overproduction. Instead, it merely worsened the problem for the long pull, by driving more consumers into the market for competing fuels. Significantly, the bargaining demand for a 200-day work year would mean only a four-day week on an annual average. The maximum number of working days during the last 20 years was only 278 days, during 1944.

Eventually, the coal strike will be settled. But nothing will be settled for miners until some genius can find a way to give them a living wage without driving coal consumers into the arms of their competitors. It's pretty plain that the genius hasn't turned out to be John L. Lewis.

George? Well....

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK—IF "THE FATHER" of his country returned to America today on his 218th birthday, how would he find he stood in the hearts of his countrymen?

George Washington would be pleased to learn that he is still first in American hearts despite the tarnish of years.

But the big, raw-boned planter-general-president might get a wry chuckle or two out of the tricks time has played with his reputation since the days when the nation's motto was, "let George do it."

To get a cross-section of present-day opinion, polled at a gallop, I asked a number of people of different occupations and ages:

1. What does George Washington mean to you?
2. What one word sums him up best?

3. How do you rank him among the great men of American history? And here are typical answers:

AN ELDERLY librarian: "George Washington is in a class by himself. He has to be first in our hearts because he founded our nation and taught us loyalty to the United States. He liked his rum and he liked the ladies, but he was a splendid leader. In one word—incomparable."

A young girl clerk: "He must have been a great man, and it certainly would be an honor to meet him. But really I don't have an opinion about him. All I know is it's a holiday—and I'm off."

A middle-aged telegrapher: "Washington was a great man in his time, but I don't think he could cope with the situation today. I have no feeling of security for my children's lives—and that gives me concern. I don't care about myself—I'm on the way down. Washington in a word: Well, not a creator—a builder. I'd put only Lincoln and Franklin D. Roosevelt above him."

A young stenographer: "HE HAD THE initiative to get men to fight who didn't want to. Above all he was courageous. I don't have a very clear picture of him—as far as I know—I admire him more than Lincoln."

An accountant: "To me he is a symbol of what every American should be—not only as a patriot, but as a humanitarian, family man and one who could stand up for what he thought was right. In one word? American. He started something that has survived—at least until now."

A corporation treasurer: "Too many people forget that Washington could have benefited just as much, probably more, as a colonial under the British government. It wasn't necessary for him to do what he did. He was an idealist. But I wouldn't classify him either as great or very reasonable. I'd rank him below Chief Justice John Marshall or Theodore Roosevelt, my boyhood hero."

An office receptionist: "He set a high standard for our democracy, and I don't think we have lived up to it. How can you put him in a word? Well, if I must—father... truly father. But he wasn't as smart a politician as Franklin D. Roosevelt. If Roosevelt had cut down the cherry tree, he wouldn't have told anybody."

AN IRISH bartender, two years from Shamrock land: "I have just read a few of his parliamentary acts, and I have forgot most of them. In Ireland we were taught he was a great president for the United States, but I don't know whether he understood the Irish question. I'd say he was a peacemaker. He was something like Lincoln, and wanted peace in the country, didn't he?"

A young veteran: "Washington spoke for equal rights and maintaining American democracy—in the country and out, all the way through. He set down the principles; all the others only followed. In one word? Equality! I think he'd be a good general to serve under, because he wouldn't ask a man to do anything he wouldn't do himself. That's the type any man likes to serve under in war."

Monument to Freedom

Commission Plan For Securing Peace

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—THE AMERICAN people have manifested in various ways that they want their government to make some new approach to the adjustment of relations with Russia. Unmistakable evidence of that sentiment has come to all branches of the government.

This sentiment, however, does not imply "appeasement" as the term is generally used, nor does it convey any impression of national weakness. Rather it is a sign of the desire of the American people to do everything possible to avoid a future war—if there is anything practical that can be done.

Inasmuch as the public is apparently not satisfied that one man's decision—either in the Department of State or in the White House or in any one government anywhere—is adequate for the present emergency, ways and means of satisfying this anxiety naturally will be examined.

There is one plan that has been suggested at different times in past diplomatic history which might well be given new consideration. It is a practical substitute for a Stalin-Truman meeting. It involves the appointment of two national commissions. One would be appointed by the President and Secretary of State of the United States and the other by the Moscow government. Both commissions would be composed of leaders—not necessarily officials—but neither commission would be empowered to make commitments for either government.

INSTEAD, when the American commission went to Moscow, it would lay before the Russian authorities its understanding of the past diplomatic relations and would endeavor to explore every source of misunderstanding, all previous agreements or treaties, all economic as well as political questions arising between the two countries, and would make a report thereon back to the government and the people of this country.

Similarly, a Russian commission that would come to Washington would explain its viewpoint to various branches of the American government so that a comprehensive study of the issues would be made.

This is not an arbitration tribunal, nor is it a substitute for diplomatic envoys who usually represent the Department of State or the office of foreign affairs in governments abroad. It would be what is known as "a commission of investigation."

FOR MANY YEARS prior to World War I the United States signed treaties with nearly all the countries of the world embodying this principle of a commission of investigation. Those treaties contained a clause whereby both sides agreed not to engage in hostilities for a period of nine months during which the commissions would investigate disputes.

In the present instance there is no need to encumber the situation with an advance agreement not to resort to war within a specified period—if that proves an obstacle—though any such agreement would be healthful and stimulating. Instead of nine months, the period could, of course, be at least three years.

It will take a long time anyhow for the relations between the East and West to be fully adjusted. If a definite period is specified for the study, there could, of course, be a provision to extend for further periods by mutual agreement.

THE ADVANTAGE of the commission idea is that it gets at the facts to the satisfaction of each side. Fact-finding bodies need not make recommendations but, in this case, it would be natural for a distinguished body of American citizens, representing the best minds in diplomacy, business and finance, agriculture, labor, education and the clergy, to make recommendations for a solution.

This approach would be very helpful in the event that a break did come—for it would satisfy American public opinion that a genuine effort had been made to avert another war. Likewise, such an approach could help the President and the Department of State to formulate a long-range policy with the knowledge that American public opinion was united behind the commission's appraisal of the situation.

Newshawks Swarm In To Cover Mercy Killing Trial

MANCHESTER, N. H.—ME AND SAM McGee are an item. We're an especially hot item for the Broadway columnist of the Icemen's Gazette.

This is the first time I have ever felt any close kinship with the hero of Robert W. Service's high-class ballad, "The Cremation of Sam McGee."

But then, this is the first time I ever spent a winter in New England, to be specific: New Hampshire.

Sam, as you may recall, was from Tennessee, and he was as miserable in the Yukon as a Hot-tent on an ice floe. As Mr. Service said:

"He was always cold, yet the Land of Gold Seemed to hold him like a spell, Though he'd often say in his homely way, He'd rather live in hell." And how right Sam was!

THERE'S SAM, victim of the Gold rush of '98, slowly freezing to death in the Arctic circle. And here am I in New Hampshire, together with all the rest of the press covering the Sander trial, steadily congealing in these icy wastes.

Pears we've got a cold snap in New Hampshire, according to the local citizenry. Cold snap, my eye! If this zero-zero weather just snapped at me, I could stand it. But it's sunk its fangs in me clean up to the hilt!

It reminds me of Sam who "On Christmas day we were musing our way, Over the Dawson trail, Talk of your cold! Through the park's fold, It stabbed like a driven nail." Well, Sam ain't got a thing on me, including the parka. Every day I mush my way To the courthouse down the street,

Talk of your cold! Through my sables old It jumps like a giant cleat. It stabs my vest and it slashes my chest, As I crawl to the Sander trial, And I wish in vain I had caught the train For a trip to the sunny Nile. O, justice is nice and I want fair dice, But must we freeze till May? Justice is old and she must be cold, Why not change the venue to Fla?

I AM COLD and miserable and I blow on my fingers all the time to keep them warm. But when I took my shoes off in a restaurant at noontime today to blow on my toes, the proprietor asked me to leave.

However, I have found one kind heart, one warm friend in this crisis. He is Sheriff Thomas F. O'Brien, who has rescued me from Little Siberia.

Manchester, doing its best to be hospitable to the scores of newsmen here, has turned the basement of the courthouse into a huge city room. There are desks and typewriters in basement corridors and storerooms. But International News Service is the dilly of them all. We have the coldest section of the basement, and not even stuffing up the windows with blankets today could keep the arctic blasts at bay.

When the sheriff passed me, he couldn't tell whether my teeth or my typewriter was chattering.

So, without further ado, he moved me into the boiler room with Sam McGee. I am now the only person in Manchester who is perspiring. Peace, it's wonderful.

Admirers of Sam will remember he finally came to life and got right warm in the fiery oils of his funeral furnace.

What was good enough for Sam is good enough for me. When this column is finished, I aim to crawl in the furnace and ask Sam to move over.

Busy Fingers

By TRUMAN TWILL

THIS much has been made crystal clear about the hydrogen bomb—that the people who think they know how the bombs can be made haven't the faintest idea what will happen if they make it.

They are in the same situation as dopes who think they know how to fix a clock but haven't the faintest idea what will happen if they get busy-fingered with something they don't understand.

Some of the atomic "scientists" have a hunch a hydrogen bomb might start a chain reaction which would destroy the world in one blinding flash. Some of them say this isn't so. But they don't know. They could be wrong just as easily as the morbid "scientists."

The word "scientist" needs to be put in quotation marks because the marks indicate doubt. Real scientists, according to an accepted meaning of the word "science," work with established facts—systematized knowledge. People who merely monkey with stuff in general, not knowing what will happen, are no more scientists than kids fooling with Christmas chemistry sets.

The best that can be said for them is that they are lucky members who may be lucky enough to live to tell the story. But by no stretch of the imagination can they be called "scientists" until the story has been told and verified. That's the key to the whole setup of science, which is the mastery of formal, established knowledge in some given field.

The idea of science has been kicked around like a stray cat by impostors the last few years. All kinds of people with no more idea about what they were doing than a pig has about Merry Christmas have been fooling with things they didn't understand.

They have loused up the lives of millions of their betters with preposterous experiments ranging the whole way from those cute Nazi experiments with helpless humans during the late war to the current trial-and-error tomfoolery with nuclear fission. And they have messed into, with carefree abandon, matters too complicated for even the most skillful of bona fide scientists even to dream of tackling.

The next time someone is introduced as a "scientist" or an "expert," it might be a good idea to jump up in meeting and holler: "Wait a minute! I demand to see this bird's credentials—and I don't mean his honorary degrees either. I demand to know what good, if any, he ever did for the human race. I want to see a testimonial about his character from his wife, his children and all living members of his family. And while he's at it he'd better be equipped with a letter of commendation from no less than 50 people who have known him for at least 10 years. Until the applicant's papers are in order, no cigar. If they aren't in order, I demand his arrest and execution for the crime of practicing science and expertise without a license, which is, or should be, a capital crime against humanity."

So They Say

It has become hard to tell now the Corps of Engineers—for, who is the master—Congress or though Congress provides the appropriations, the Corps provides the method of operation and the excuse for spending billions on projects that bring such joy to the home districts of the rivers-and-harbors-bloc congressmen.

—Former Gov. Leslie Miller of Wyoming.

When we again become the government we shall devote all our strength and experience to try to lay securely the foundations of friendship and harmony between the nations, whatever their political color.

—Anthony Eden, deputy Conservative leader, on British general election.

With active, virile preparation in the world for mutual destruction... any assumption that we can escape a third world war without a radical and immediate change in our present policy is hardly justified.

—Former Undersecretary of State Will Clayton.

World Friendship Stressed
At Dinner For Girl Scouts

A WORLD BOUND TOGETHER in good will was the keynote of a colorful Girl Scout International Friendship dinner Tuesday evening in the Presbyterian social hall.

Small flags of many countries were displayed in a holder around which were dolls dressed to accent a Friendship theme.

Troop 1, of which Mrs. Glenn Whinnery and Mrs. Francis Waiwale are leaders, formed the general committee for the event, which was in recognition of membership in a world organization. This troop made all plans for the program and also made the attractive green booklets which contained the program. They were tied with yellow yarn and on the front was the Girl Scouts gold trefoil.

Ten intermediates and two senior troops participated, with approximately 240 in attendance, including leaders and a few guests.

Each troop represented a different country and decorated its table and furnished food in accordance with the country chosen. All the tables were beautiful, and novel favors were given. Some of the girls wore the costumes of the countries they represented.

Table decorations were judged by the Scout Council program committee. Mrs. Frederick Barkhoff, Jr., Mrs. George Boechling, Mrs. Ann Cosma, Mrs. Paul Harrington, Mrs. Donald Mathews and Mrs. James Rawsthorne, who also made the arrangements for the dinner details. Mrs. Rawsthorne, chairman of judges, announced the awards.

There were three first awards. They went to Troop 7, representing Mexico; Troop 1, American Indians; Troop 8, Norway.

Troops 15 and 19 received second honors. Their table depicted Hawaii and Holland, respectively. Troops 9, 6 and 2, representing China, Germany and Ireland, won third place. Troops 5 and 20 chose Italy and Spain for their countries.

While the two senior troops did not compete with the intermediates, their settings, American and Arabian scenes, were given an honorable mention award by the judges.

Some of the novel decorations used on the tables last night will be displayed in the Hansell room March 12, in recognition of the Girl Scout anniversary.

In the 29 countries where there is Girl Scouting and Girl Guiding, February is designated as International Month. Today is set aside as Thinking Day when Scouts and Guides send greetings or thoughts to friends in other parts of the world.

Mrs. Albert Ryser, guest speaker, a native of Switzerland, was introduced by Mrs. Whinnery. She gave a vivid description of her last trip to her homeland, which was made by plane from New York City. Describing the beauties of Switzerland, she also told of its government and the customs of its people. The organization in Switzerland, which is similar to Girl Scouts, is known as Pathfinders.

Mrs. Robert Watterson directed group singing of "Our Chalet." Mrs. Robert Eddy, president of the Girl Scout Council, gave the invocation. Holland Cameron

J. M. Kelley Talks
To Mothers Club

Parents should teach their children to respect them and also to respect older people, according to Joe M. Kelley, manager of the Memorial building recreation center.

Mr. Kelley voiced this opinion when he was guest speaker for the Progressive Mothers Club at a meeting Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. Richard Wilson, Tenth st.

Using for his theme, "The Youth of Today," Kelley placed the blame for juvenile delinquency on parents. He explained that the youth of today are not any worse than youth of the yesteryears, only they have more time on their hands.

The speaker stressed the need for television at the Memorial building to help in the entertainment of the youth, who might otherwise seek this diversion in taverns. Kelley also expressed the need of a swimming pool for Salem.

Roll call response was "Your Favorite Sport."

The members will make a gift to the Central Clinic building fund. Plans were completed for Husbands Night Saturday, March 11, a dinner-dance at Horvath's restaurant.

Initial Meeting Held
By Mam' Zelles Club

Initial meeting of the Mam' Zelles Club was held Monday evening at the home of Jean Sell, N. Ellsworth ave. Officers were named as follows:

Up Their Sleeves: Spring

Spectacular sleeves are the changing silhouette's ables ally. The "tulips" (upper left) carry fullness to the top of a white doeskin suit with pert peplum and large revers. The draped cuffs on full push-up sleeves (lower left) dramatize a coat dress of white pique. The "lampshade" sleeves trimmed with cotton fringe (center) wing out from the deep yoke of a gray linen dress. A "slash seam" rises from sleeves of flame colored jacket (right).

100 Couples Attend
Saxon Society Dance

Approximately 100 couples attended the annual pre-Lenten dance of the Salem Saxon Society last Saturday night at the hall.

John Leonhardt's eight piece band of Cleveland played the dance program.

Dance prizes were won by Mr. and Mrs. Peter Schnell, Mr. and Mrs. Matt Klein and Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kloos. Mrs. Marie Ramsayer won the door prize.

Out-of-town guests were from Cleveland, Farrell and New Castle, Pa., Alliance and Youngstown.

Miss Margaret Sosenko Wed To Harold Sanor In Leetonia

AT 7:30 p. m. SATURDAY, in St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Leetonia, Miss Margaret Sosenko, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Sosenko of Leetonia, and Harold H. Sanor, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Sanor of North Georgetown, were united in marriage in a candle-light ceremony.

Rev. T. P. Laughner, the pastor, officiated at the single-ring ceremony performed before an altar decorated with vases of white gladioli. Miss Martha Lee Weikart, organist, presented musical selections.

Mrs. Frank Skowron, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and Lloyd Blackburn, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man. Frank Skowron, brother-in-law of the bride, and Donald Stokes were ushers.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Jacob Sosenko, was lovely in her wedding gown of nylon and lace. Her finger tip veil fell from a band of white roses and she carried a bouquet of white roses and baby breath. She wore the bridegroom's gift, a pearl necklace.

Mrs. Skowron wore an olive green taffeta gown with yellow accessories and carried a bouquet of red roses.

Both the mother of the bride and the bridegroom wore dark blue dresses with black accessories and corsages of red and white roses.

A reception at the bride's home followed the wedding after which Mr. and Mrs. Sanor left for their wedding trip to Washington, D. C. They will make their home at North Georgetown where the bridegroom is engaged in farming.

Mrs. Sanor, a graduate of Leetonia High School, has been employed at the Crescent Machine Division office of the Rockwell Manufacturing Co.

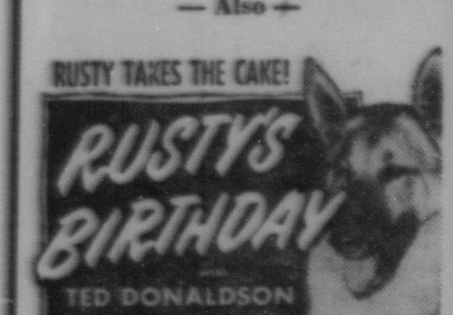

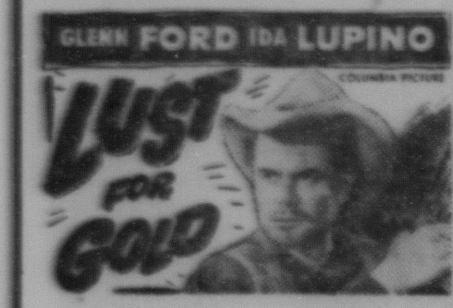

The bride remembered her attendants with compacts, and the bridegroom presented his attendants with tie clasps.

Account of Washington's Funeral Told In Historic Paper

By PEARL WALKER

TODAY marks the 218th birthday anniversary of George Washington, "Father of Our Country," and commander-in-chief of the Revolutionary Army.

Washington's birthday has been made a legal holiday in every state of the Union, District of Columbia, Alaska, Canal Zone, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Born at Bridges Creek, Westmoreland county, Va., Feb. 22, 1732, Washington represented Virginia in the first and second continental congresses and took a leading part. It is said that he was not an orator like Patrick Henry nor a writer like Thomas Jefferson, but that when it came to common sense and the management of affairs he excelled them all.

Much has been written in tribute to this great statesman, and the story of Washington and the cherry tree is familiar to every school child, but the original witeup of his funeral is not so common.

WASHINGTON died Dec. 14, 1799, at Mt. Vernon. In the Saturday, Jan. 4, 1800 issue of the Ulster County (Va.) Gazette is an account of his funeral under the heading of "Washington Entombed." It was dated George Town, Dec. 20, and is as follows: "On Wednesday last, the mortal part of Washington, The Great—the father of His country and the friend of man, was consigned to the tomb, with solemn honors and funeral pomp.

"A multitude of persons assembled from many miles around, at Mt. Vernon, the choice abode and last residence of the illustrious chief. There were the groves, the spacious avenue, the beautiful and sublime scenes, the noble mansion—but alas! the august inhabitant was now no more. That great soul was gone. His mortal part was there indeed; but ah! how affecting! how awful the spectacle of such worth and greatness, thus to mortal eyes, fallen!—Yes! fallen! fallen!"

"In the long and lofty portico, where oft the hero walked in all his glory, now lay the shrouded corpse. The countenance still composed and serene, seemed to depress the dignity of the spirit, which lately dwelt in that lifeless form. There those who paid the last sad honors to the benefactor of his country; took an impressive—a farewell view.

"On the ornament, at the head of the coffin, was inscribed Surge Ad Judicium—about the middle of the coffin—Gloria Deo and on the silver plate General George Washington, departed this life Dec. 14, 1799."

"Between 3 and 4 o'clock, the sound of artillery from a vessel in the river, firing minute guns, awoke afresh our solemn sorrow—the corpse was moved—a band of music with mournful melody melted the soul into all the tenderness of woe.

"The procession was formed and moved in the following order: "Cavalry, Infantry, Guard, Music, Clergy . . . mourners, Masonic brethren and citizens.

"When the procession had arrived at the bottom of the elevated lawn, on the banks of the Potomac, where the family vault is placed, the cavalry halted, the infantry marched toward the mount and formed their lines—the clergy, the Masonic brothers, and the citizens, descended to the vault, and the funeral service of the church was performed. The firing was repeated from the vessel on the river, and the sounds echoed from the woods and hills around.

"Three general discharges by the infantry—the cavalry, and 11 pieces of artillery, which lined the banks of the Potomac back to the vault, paid the last tribute to the entombed Commander-in-Chief of the armies of the United States and to the departed hero.

"The sun was now setting. Alas! the son of glory was set forever. No—the name of Washington—the American president and general—will triumph over death! The unclouded brightness of his glory will illuminate the future ages."

Mrs. J. A. Fehr of E. Third st. loaned The News this copy of The Ulster County Gazette. It came to her from a friend at Smithfield.

Noname Club Guests Of Richard Culbersons

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Culberson delightedly entertained associates of the Noname Club and their husbands Saturday evening at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Culberson on E. Sixth st.

The women played "500" with prizes going to Mrs. William Dunlap and Mrs. Delbert Fowler. Mrs. Walter Alesi won the traveling prize. Men in the party were interested in various games.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Greene were guests of the club. A buffet lunch was served. March 15 meeting will be with Mrs. Pete Clark of S. Madison ave.

Party Honors Birthday Of Dawna Mae Stiver

In celebration of her sixth birthday Monday Dawna Mae had a little white lamb at her party—a lamb-shaped cake in reality.

The "lamb" was served from a happy birthday musical tray at the dinner party arranged by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Stiver, at their home on E. Third st. Out-of-town guests were Dawna Mae's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lusted, of Canfield.

Place favors were pink rosebuds on a pink cloth and pink candles lighted the table, centered with an arrangement of sweetpeas and pansies. Green also was a part of the color scheme. Friends and relatives remembered Dawna's birthday with gifts and cards.

Kinks Members Enjoy Informal Social Time

An informal social time was enjoyed by members of the Kinks when they were guests of Miss Donna Barnes Monday evening at her home, E. Third st. Refreshments were served.

Delores McElroy of W. Eighth st. will be hostess at the March 7 meeting.

Lions Club Auxiliary Donates To Red Cross

An arrangement of spring flowers added beauty to the table when members of the Lions Club auxiliary met Monday evening in the Blue Room of the Metzger Hotel for a dinner. Hostesses were Mrs. Charles Edwards and Mrs. Clarence Hartough.

It was voted to give a gift to the Red Cross drive. Canasta was a pleasure of the social period. Mrs. Homer Logue won a prize. Members will meet again March 20.

Taft Defines 'Insurance'

Claims Welfare Plan Not Properly Labeled

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—The slogan "social insurance," has a friendly sound, but it's a misrepresentation. It's a system of taxation, instead, to support a plan of government payments.

That was the gist of a report today by U. S. Senator Robert A. Taft (R.) of Ohio to his constituents.

"The term, 'social insurance,' is one of the most effective weapons to turn over to the federal government a predominant power in the daily lives of our people," Mr. Taft declared.

"It's already in effect as old age and survivors' insurance. It has been approved by the House of Representatives for permanent disability. It's strongly urged for medical care as the principal feature of the program to socialized medicines. In England it now covers every contingency from the cradle to the grave."

Senator Taft was quick to assert that he is in favor of the old age insurance plan and in some other fields, too, it has "real merit." But he said it should be recognized for "what it is—taxation of the people to provide great national services expending vast sums of money for those who, in the past, have paid their own way."

The payments made in social insurance, Mr. Taft said, have little relation to the risk insured against.

"Thus, under the existing old age insurance," he explained, "persons may receive substantial pensions whose payroll taxes have lasted only a short time, and persons in the $1,200 income group get much more for their money than those in the $3,000 group."

The same thing is true of unemployment insurance supported by the 30 percent payroll tax, Mr. Taft declared.

"Payroll taxes in general," he said, "are passed on to the consumer and increase the price of goods. The result is that the cost of these programs is a burden on the entire community, paid for the most part in higher prices for food and clothing and every other necessity. Every family in the land is taxed to make these payments."

Remote-Control Bombs, Huge New Jet Bombers To Keep H-Bombing From Being Suicide Mission

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
WASHINGTON — (NEA)—A method of dropping a hydrogen bomb which does not require a suicide mission has been worked out. And huge jet bombers which can carry the new weapon are being developed.

This information is part of a hitherto secret priority schedule for push-button warfare revealed in the Air Force annual report.

Since early in World War II, AF experts have been seeking various ways for an airplane to drop a bomb without going directly over the target.

Such bombing technique has several obvious advantages: The plane doesn't have to fly through the anti-aircraft fire usually concentrated around a city. And if a bomber can drop its load from 50 to 100 miles away from the center of the city, it's impossible to concentrate sufficient ack-ack guns in an area of that wide radius to be effective.

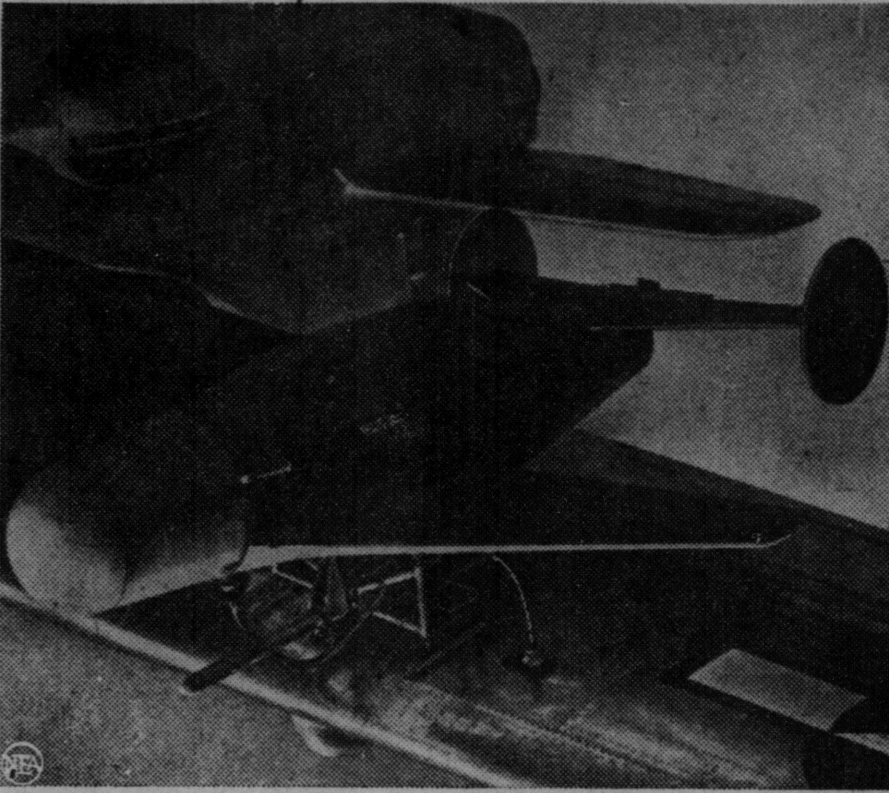

THE SAME THEORY applies to air cover. It's extremely difficult and costly to intercept and shoot down an attacking plane that comes no closer than within 100 miles of a target to accurately drop a bomb. While the idea of escaping the blast of a super-bomb was not original inspiration for this line of study, the H-bomb now gives it added reason.

There are several methods, now in advance development, for guiding bombs to targets.

Electronic gear in the bomb's nose can direct it to heavy concentrations of light, sound and heat as it falls. This is done with control vanes.

The best method yet developed permits the bombardier, by means of radio, to guide a bomb into its target. Control vanes on the missile, plus small wings, give the bombardier more control over direction and greater range to the bomb. The Navy's "Bat" is such a missile.

The bombardier watches the path of the dropping bomb on the radar scope, which also shows the target, and thus can tell how to direct the course by radio.

MANY OF THE DETAILS and descriptions of the various guiding systems and their application are top secret. So are the effective ranges of guidance.

To further insure the safety of a crew in a plane assigned to drop an H-bomb, the Air Force is working on several new giant jet bombers, all about the size of the B-36, which will have speeds in the 600-mile-per-hour range. Only one, the XB-52 which is being built by Boeing, has been announced officially, and only the barest details are available on it.

According to present plans, the XB-52 will be powered by eight new-type jet engines more powerful and efficient than anything yet made. It will be large enough to carry an H-bomb. It will have a range of 10,000 miles or more. In shape it will resemble the B-47 "Stratojet" with slim swept-back wings.

Although little is known about the exact specifications of the

Fichter Explains His Farm Surplus Theory

TIFFIN, Feb. 22 — (AP)—Under-consumption, rather than over-production, is the cause of current farm surpluses, says State Grange Master Joseph W. Fichter.

He defended the government's farm price support program last night in a speech at the Clinton Township school near here.

The potato surplus in 1928, before price supports, was as large as it is today, Fichter maintained. But then, he said, "the surplus was wasted or not harvested at all."

Potatoes sell for about five cents a pound at retail, but farmers get only two cents a pound new, the grange master said.

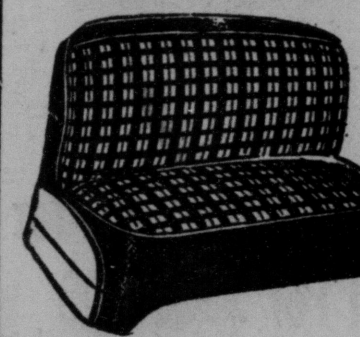

"When all of us share in the cost of wastage involved in unmanageable surpluses of food, we shall be willing to share the responsibility of moving the food to both producers and consumers," Fichter said.

Potato Supports Under Congress Eye

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—(AP)—The question of continued price supports for the potato today revolved around the merits of marketing quotas versus marketing agreements.

The difference is in brief: Quotas are more rigid in application and apply to all producers, big and small, regardless of location. Agreements are area arrangements usually voluntary, and may not be uniform in application.

A $450,000,000 bill, footed by taxpayers to keep up the price of surplus potatoes produced since the war, has brought the matter of controls to a head in the Senate.

An amendment to knock out all price supports for potatoes until Congress can establish effective marketing quotas has been added to a House-approved cotton-peanuts acreage bill by the Senate agriculture committee.

It was sponsored by Senator Lucas (D-Ill.).

Scientific Approach Needed, Students Told

HIRAM, Feb. 22—(AP)—The world's social problems require the use of scientific techniques, a scientist advised a religious conference at Hiram College last night.

Dr. James G. Vail of Philadelphia, who was president of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers in 1946, spoke to an audience of about 800 clergymen, laymen and students. The speech concluded a one-day non-sectarian religious conference which was part of the college's centennial year observance.

Dr. Vail noted that world population has doubled in the last century and that technological processes are compressing the larger population into a steadily shrinking community.

This, he said, has given rise to social problems requiring of religious leaders unlimited vision, tireless research and a scientific approach.

Goes On Trial For Car Theft And Holdup

LISBON, Feb. 22—Jury trials of persons indicted by the January grand jury, opened in Common Pleas court before Judge Joel H. Sharp Monday, with John Martin Wasson of East Liverpool the first of six persons who entered pleas of innocence to stand trial.

Wasson is charged with auto theft, driving a car without the owner's consent and armed robbery. The charges grew out of the theft of a station wagon from the home of Mike Turk in East Liverpool last Sept. 17, and as Prosecuting Attorney James MacDonald charges, the subsequent holdup of Truckers Inn, a restaurant in Wellsville, about 6 a. m., and in the get-a-way the station wagon was wrecked near the Wellsville city limits.

Those seated on the jury hearing the case are: Lawrence McCoy and Twyla Williams, Rogers; Eileen Smith, Nettie Davis, Maude Moore, Walter Coie and Judy Dornon of Lisbon; Neil Kerr, Salem; Elizabeth Athey, Homeworth; Helen Buck, Wellsville; Edith Grant, Salineville, and Steve Korosy, Alliance, R. Californian Forecasts De-emphasis Of College Football

Cal Official Points At Cost

Several Schools Drop Game Due To Pressure

BERKELEY, Cal., Feb. 22—(UP)—The economic aspect of fielding a winning football team is causing a "very serious" condition in American college sports, Brutus Hamilton, director of athletics at University of California, warned today.

Pointing to the recent number of colleges that have been forced to abandon football, the financial entanglements at some schools and the trouble others are having in holding top-flight coaches against the bidding of wealthier schools, Hamilton said:

"The recent football financial troubles at many schools may foreshadow a general de-emphasis in the sport. I know that many educators believe that sports now are over-emphasized."

Hamilton went on to say that the costs of financing a big-time football team are nearly prohibitive, although he pointed out that California, one of the largest schools in the nation, is in no trouble.

"Travel costs, equipment prices, coaching personnel and other details in fielding a football team have become excessive," he said. "The result is that near-capacity crowds are needed at nearly every game to gain a balanced budget."

Among the schools that recently have abandoned football are Canisius, Portland University and St. Louis University. Harvard and Washington University of St. Louis have de-emphasized the sport. University of Nevada is engaged in a battle over financial troubles, caused by expenditure of $145,000 in the past four years to field football teams.

"We at the University of California have operated on a very conservative budget," said Hamilton, "but we still couldn't put out athletic scholarships like many schools."

NCAA Council May Revise Sanity Code

CHICAGO, Feb. 22—(AP)—An interchange of ideas on the N.C.A.A. sanity code, possibly with a view toward revisions, has been made by Secretary-Treasurer K. L. (Tug) Wilson of the National Athletic Association and commissioners of the Southeastern and Southwestern Conferences.

James Stewart of the Southwestern Conference and Bernie Moore of the Southeastern huddled with Wilson yesterday in an unheralded meeting.

There were no official announcements, although it was reported the three met to discuss a revision of the code.

"We were just batting around a few ideas," said Stewart. "We talked about N.C.A.A. matters generally. There were no formal conclusions. The future may develop something, we hope before the 1951 annual meeting at Dallas. But there is nothing to say now."

The mum-is-the-word session was held just four days before the newly-elected 15-member N.C.A.A. council, over-all policy making group, meets in Chicago. The council, made up of eight district vice presidents and seven members at large elected by the vice presidents, will review a recent statement by Wilson and new N.C.A.A. president, Hugh C. Willett of Southern California, that code violators under the organization's constitution are subject to punishment.

Veeck Files Slander Suit For $500,000

CLEVELAND Feb. 22—(AP)—Jack H. Harris, who sued former Cleveland Indians' President Bill Veeck for $1,200,000 damages, found himself defendant in a $500,000 libel action today.

Veeck filed his suit in common pleas court yesterday as a cross-petition to the onetime Cuyahoga county commissioner's action.

Veeck said the former stockholder had "attempted to slander, libel and injure him in his personal and private life and his business relations."

Harris had charged Veeck with spending team money without proper authority.

Veeck said Harris previously had threatened to sue him unless Veeck sold him the baseball club. He said all of his actions concerning the club had been approved by the board of directors and that when the team was sold every stockholder received $20 for every $1 invested.

Majors Report 77 Holdouts

Twirlers Newhouser, Lemon Head A. L. List

NEW YORK, Feb. 22—(AP)—Seventy seven major leaguers, including such stars as Hal Newhouser, Howie Pollet, Bob Lemon and Vern Stephens, still haven't come to contract terms with their employers.

Many are still yelling for more dough when spring training begins one week from today.

A survey by the Associated Press showed today that the St. Louis Browns have the most malcontents, 15, while the New York Giants have none, the only club that can claim that distinction.

Newhouser, one of five Detroit Tigers out of the fold, is reported ready to sign. The brilliant lefthander reportedly has been asked to take a $10,000 cut, reducing his paycheck to $50,000.

Pollet also reportedly is on the verge of submitting. The St. Louis Cardinal 20-game winner is asking $25,000. Card President Fred Saigh said in St. Louis yesterday both had agreed on the basic salary but are at odds over attendance bonus clauses.

Lemon, who won 22 games for the Cleveland Indians last season, is angling for $35,000. Stephens, who bats cleanup for the Boston Red Sox, supposedly is peeved over his 1950 contract which calls for the same salary he made last season, approximately $25,000.

The world champion New York Yankees also are having trouble gathering in their brood. Nine of the Bombers are unsigned, including 20-game winner Vic Raschi, catcher Yogi Berra, infielder Bobby Brown and outfielder Dick Wakefield, the importation from Detroit.

Brooklyn, the National League champ, also has problems—five to be exact. Dodgers still on the loose are pitchers Jack Banta, Rex Barney, Clarence Podbielan, infielder Bob Morgan and outfielder Gene Hermanski.

One of the most stubborn batters is second baseman Cass Michaels of the Chicago White Sox. The youthful infielder has fired back six documents with machine gun precision.

The top St. Louis Browns out of the fold are rookie-of-the-year outfielder Roy Sievers and righthander Ned Garver, two of the most desirable performers in the American League.

The Philadelphia Athletics have six disgruntled players. One is third sacker Bob Dillingham, obtained along with Paul Lehner from St. Louis for $100,000 and five players.

Washington has five displeased members, including Rae Scarborough who wants more than the $18,000 he received for winning 13 games last year.

The Philadelphia Phillies have the most balkers in the National League, nine, including 17-game

ON THE LEVEL—Detroit pitcher Freddy Hutchinson isn't kidding while giving mermaid Lynn Weston a few tips on the proper placement of home plate in the Braves' Bradenton, Fla., park. Wintering at the Boston training site, the Tigers' leading hurler in 1949 with a 15-7 record will move north to Lakeland, Mar. 1, to report to Manager Red Rolfe.

Columbiana Sportsmen Team Globe Trotters To Engage

The finest independent basketball team in the district—the Columbiana Sportsmen—will meet the best gate attraction in the game Saturday night, when they tangle with the world-famous Harlem Globe Trotters in the Columbiana High School gym.

Beginning at 9 p. m., the tussle will follow a preliminary game between Dorothy's Dairy and the North Lima Merchants. The games are sponsored by the Columbiana Sportsman's club.

While fans will see the usual outstanding Globe Trotter clowning at its best, they are also likely to witness some top-flight basketball, for the Sportsmen are no setup. The Columbiana team has a record of 14-1 for the season, with victories over the best in the district.

The Sportsmen lost their only decision to the Beaver Falls American Legion 39-37, but later avenged that defeat by beating them 49-38 in Columbiana. The Columbiana five's last victory was over Salem Mullins previously undefeated team 61-53.

Competing for the Sportsmen are Bob Carr, 6-4 of North Lima, Len Goist of Springfield township and Geneva College, the Reash twins, Bob and Dick of Fairfield and Kent State U., Bob Cope, 6-5 of Fairfield and Mount Union, and Carl Blosser of Kent State.

Others include Dick Mahon of East Palestine High, Don Patchen of Akron U. and Bill Dickinson of Columbiana. The coach is Bob Firestone of Geneva.

The Globe Trotters are now in their 23rd year of competition and have accumulated an amazing record of 3,184 victories in that time—an average of 145 per season. Over the past three seasons, the Trotters have lost only 13 games, winning 452.

Their most important win last year was one over the pro Minneapolis Lakers, who feature George Mikan, before 21,000 fans in Chicago Stadium.

Starring for the Trotters is Reece "Goose" Tatum, said to be the greatest entertainer in sports today. In addition to his clowning, he is a record-breaking scorer. It is the seventh year for Tatum with the Globe Trotters.

Playing with Tatum is Nat "Sweetwater" Clifton, 6-7 giant with the huge hands. He has appeared in this area several times, often with the Dayton Meats. He is flanked by Duke Cumberland, the oldtime set shot ace.

The game promises to draw a capacity crowd into the new Clipper gym, which can accommodate up to 1500 fans.

REESE "GOOSE" TATUM, star of the Harlem Globe Trotters. The cage star has an 84-inch reach and nights are common when he dumps in 20 or 25 field goals.

Gin Rummy Finalists To Play This Week

The semi-final and final rounds of the Salem Amvets annual gin rummy tournament will be played off this week. The four players remaining in the tourney are Mel Wukotich and Bob Dixon, Tom Nedelka and John Detell.

They will compete for the winner's trophy and three cash prizes. The tournament field originally included 59 players.

Julian Faces London In Match This Week

Frank "Toar" Julian of Salem will lock grips with one of the greatest wrestlers in the history of the mat game Saturday night at the Youngstown Valley Arena, where he meets Jim London.

London was recognized as the world's heavyweight champion for nine consecutive years, but has not been wrestling in recent years. He is presently on a tour of the country.

The Saturday card also includes a woman's match.

Tickets for the card will be placed on sale at Salem sporting goods stores.

Joe Angyal, national single sculls champion, has been appointed chairman of the New York A. C. Rowing Committee for 1950.

TV Viewers Are Fight Experts

Television Machines Make Fans Authorities

NEW YORK — (NEA) — No business or sport spawns "experts" so prolifically and with such slight provocation as boxing.

A man can cash a check without trying to tell the president how to run his bank.

But, let the average guy see just one prize fight and he immediately becomes, in his own mind, a better promoter than Tex Rickard, a better referee than Ruby Goldstein and more thoroughly versed than Ray Arzel in conditioning a boxer.

In the old days B. T. (before television) these self-ordained authorities formed a noisy minority, but today TV has moved the misguided "experts" and their rharbabs into the parlor and pub.

Now the dissident, who a few times a year viewed proceedings from a bleacher seat and took exception to the decisions reached by officials working practically in the fighters' laps, finds it possible through video to disagree more often and more emphatically.

And with just a little justification.

Because a television camera moves right up into the ring is no reason to believe the TV viewer can see more of what goes on than the referee or judges. Or even as much.

Video doesn't always correctly show the effect of punches and frequently the television spectator cannot even see whether or not a punch landed.

A fighter often wins a "television decision" by keeping his fists in a state of perpetual motion, with no regard to the impact of his punches. Television doesn't even show blood and severe cuts.

The weighing of a fight decision is, or should be, a precise operation, taking into proper account science displayed, punishment inflicted and clean hitting among other factors. These cannot be properly evaluated from a bleacher seat or in front of a television camera.

All of which will not, of course, affect the self-appointed experts one bit.

A knockout can save a lot of arguments.

Or, if you like your evenings peaceful, you can always blow out a tube.

Calumet Farm's hope for a third straight Kentucky Derby victory, Theory, is going along steadily in training at Hialeah.

University of Arizona Dean of Men Louis A. Slonaker captained the Wildcat football team in 1920.

Penn State's soccer coach Bill Jeffrey, has compiled a record of 130 wins, 19 losses and 25 ties over a 24-year period.

STRIKES TO SPARE

A big 243 game on his last try gave Dick Albright of Mullins a 613 series and the best score in the American section of the Quaker City League Monday night. His other games were 184 and 185.

Close on his heels was Lawrence "Whitey" Kaercher of the Firestone Hotpoints, who carded a 612, his best of the year. Kaercher had games of 202, 198, 212. Jim Armstrong of Althouse had 597, with two games over 200.

The American section of the league had 39 of 70 bowlers over 500.

Dick Konnerth of Fernengels was the best kegger of the night in the National section, with a sparkling 615 series on games of 190, 205 and 220. Red Hall of Gray's collected 580 and Willard Crowl of the K. of P. notched 556. Crowl bowled games of 222 and 213, but fell clear down to 121 in his middle game to miss 600.

The tightest match of the night involved the Amvets and Coy's. The two teams battled to a tie in both of their first two games, splitting evenly in the roll-offs. Coy's copped the rubber tilt.

Faulty Starting Gates Again Used In AAU Sprints, Hurdles

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Plenty of fireworks were encountered at the National Indoor AAU Track and Field Championships at Madison Square Garden.

Those AAU guys who persist in being comedians dragged in the old starting gate again for sprints and hurdles.

The contraption, called Ogden's Folly in salute to Ben Ogden, its inventor, sounded like a Fourth of July celebration last spring at the Penn Relays. The hurdlers had gotten away to a beautiful start that day and were flitting over the first flight when "bang" the gun attached to the gimmick accidentally went off, calling the boys back.

Next time they had gone over the second set of hurdles after another flawless getaway when "bang" went the ghostly recall and back came the annoyed timber toppers.

Once more the boys got off evenly. Over one, two, three, four, five, six, seven hurdles they went. Suddenly, the playful machine went "bang" again. But you know what happened when the shepherd boy cried "Wolf" a third time. The hurdlers paid no attention and continued on over the eighth, ninth and 10th barriers and on to the finish.

Last time we saw the infernal machine was at the Philadelphia Games last month. It lasted just five or six heats of the 50-yard dash, then a spring connected to the gun broke. The contraption was hauled aside in disgrace and starting resumed in the good old reliable way—by a man with a gun in hand.

It looked like trail's end for the fractious exit. But Pinky Sober, National AAU track and field committee chairman, who toes all those long commercials over the Garden loud speaker in behalf of the stalls, insisted upon spectators having the added special entertainment. In vain did athletes and coaches protest.

Only stars expressing preference for the yoke when queried by this corner at the Philadelphia meet were Dick Taylor of Philadelphia's Shanahan Catholic Club and Jim Gehrds. Among those opposed were Andy Stanfield and Ira Kaplan, first and second choices in the AAU dash, and Harrison Dillard and Billy Mitchell, the hurdlers.

Stanfield, national champion from Seton Hall, Orange, N. J., complained that last year he was struck by a piece of the machinery. He also recalled one of his former teammates, Basil McKenzie, was cut on the arm by the contraption. Kaplan, New York University ace who won the New York Athletic Club 60, once fell flat on his face when he leaned against the restraining straps, thus being eliminated in the first round.

Dillard is afraid of touching the straps, so starts a few inches behind the mark. He does this even though inches count in short races. Mitchell claims he's too big for the stalls.

One of the big objections is that the boys can't practice starting in the gate because there aren't any available. Even race horses are given that much consideration.

Worst off in respect to experience in the stalls probably is Craig Dixon, UCLA alumnus and national outdoor hurdles king. They never see starting gates for humans out California way.

Like it or not, Craig Dixon and the others were to get the gate.

Spectators were advised to come early and see the fireworks.

Warden Honored By Sportsman Group

A vote of appreciation was extended to Game Warden Earl Ressler of Mahoning county at a public game hearing held recently in the Ellsworth school by the Mahoning County Farmer's and Sportsmen's Association.

Ressler was honored for his outstanding service to farmers and sportsmen and for the performance of his duties. He will complete five years on the job June 1.

The group re-elected Miller Foulk of Lake Milton as its president and Edward A. Saltsman as secretary by unanimous vote. Saltsman was named to represent the group at the district game hearing in Twinsburg in March.

The association passed the fol-

RFC Closes In On Lustron

Ask Receiver In Action Filed Tuesday

COLUMBUS, Feb. 22—(AP)—The Reconstruction Finance Corp. which bankrolled the Lustron steel house with $37,500,000 in cash, appears to have decided the venture can't succeed.

Yesterday the RFC asked U. S. district court to foreclose a $36,466,273.01 mortgage against the Columbus, O., company which to date has turned out about 2,000 brightly-colored porcelain on steel homes.

The RFC also asked a receiver be appointed to preserve mortgaged property—more than 150 presses of various sizes, huge gas-fired and electric enameling ovens, and other equipment estimated to have cost about $12,000,000.

In asking for the receiver, Jess A. Fraser, manager of the Cleveland Loan Agency of the RFC, said that as of last Jan. 31 Lustron had lost $20,824,504.12 or more and that there is no "reasonable prospect of a change to profitable operation."

The foreclosure action was filed as Lustron officials in Washington presented the RFC with a reorganization plan. Details of the latest plan have not been released, and Carl G. Strandlund, Lustron president, could not be reached immediately for a statement.

Federal Judge Mell G. Underwood will hear the RFC request for a receiver and an injunction to prevent disposal of any of the property at 10 a. m. Monday. The RFC will ask the court to require that Lustron officials surrender the property to a receiver.

Strandlund himself was named in a suit seeking a judgment for $15,485,875. The RFC petition said that amount still is due on the first loan of $15,500,000 made to Lustron, Oct. 31, 1947. This amount is included in the $36,466,273.01 total sought from the corporation.

The request for a receiver did not include Strandlund. The suit charged Strandlund's assets "are entirely insufficient to pay off and discharge his debts and liabilities."

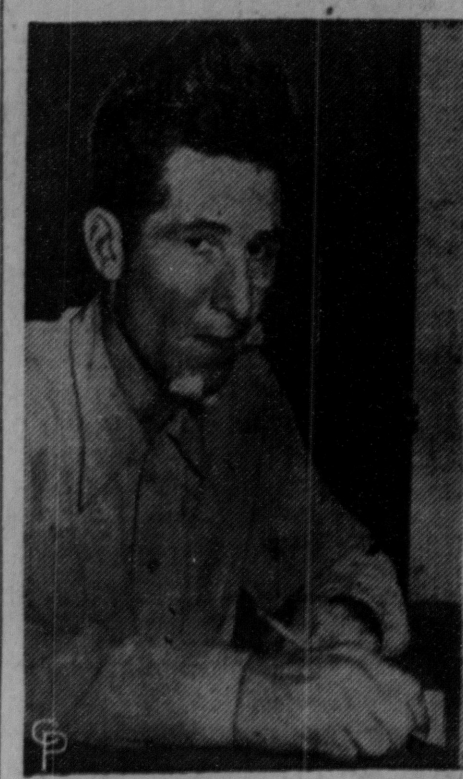

Banker Warns Of Personal Debt Danger

COLUMBUS, Feb. 22—(AP)—A Wisconsin banker today warned that "financial indigestion" may be in store for many persons getting too far into debt.

In an address prepared for delivery this afternoon at a meeting of the Ohio Bankers Association, Kenneth K. Duvall, president of the First National Bank of Appleton, Wis., said:

"If the economy runs into the shoals of depression because of presently unwise credit and debt, it will most likely be due to the financial indigestion of the individual consumer."

Duvall said millions of persons are being taken out of the market "for a long time to come" with a combination of 80 to 100 per cent real estate mortgages, three-year F. H. A. improvement loans, two-year loans on automobiles and other purchase debts.

He urged bankers and other extenders of credit never to lose sight of the "social responsibilities implied in encouraging or, at least, enabling millions of average salaried and wage-earning persons and families to mortgage their futures far in advance."

L. L. Marshall Fights Exclusion From Ballot

COLUMBUS, Feb. 22—(AP)—L. L. Marshall will carry his fight to get his name on the ballot to the Ohio Supreme court, his counsel said yesterday.

Secretary of State Charles F. Sweeney ruled the Euclid man is not a valid candidate for the Republican nomination to attorney general. Sweeney held that Marshall did not file valid declaration of candidacy petitions from at least 30 counties.

Marshall's petitions were from 35 counties, but Sweeney said the petitions questioned differed from the master petition, making them invalid.

E. G. Schuessler of Columbus, counsel for Marshall, said he would appeal Sweeney's ruling to the state's highest court, on grounds the secretary of state exceeded his discretion in barring Marshall.

8C English Class Gives Abraham Lincoln Play

Beverly Presco was the director and bookholder.

HUGE BARGE PLANNED
CLEVELAND, Feb. 22—(AP)—A 291-foot-long steel barge for hauling food products will be built for Cargo Carriers, Inc., here and will be ready late in August. The Cleveland firm announced yesterday that it had signed a contract with the Christy Corp. of Sturgeon Bay, Wis., for delivery of the barge and a propelling tug at a total cost of around $550,000. The barge will carry soybean oil from South Chicago to New York City, via the New York state barge canal. On the return trips it will haul molasses.

Spaghetti Is a Maddox Special

STRICTLY personal—that's what this five-cheese spaghetti casserole happens to be. Developed in my home, the favorite dinner dish of most of our friends, the delight of our nursery school son and his collegiate brother, it will please your family, too, we hope, especially on meatless days.

So come to our home for dinner. This is how we'll prepare it for you.

Remember, this dish is rich in the proteins of dairy foods. You won't want anything else to eat with it except warm crispy French or Italian bread and a bountiful mixed greens and tomato salad with French dressing.

Five-Cheese Spaghetti (Serves 6 generously)

One pound of high-quality spaghetti, 1/2 pound American cheddar cheese, 1/3 pound Swiss cheese, 1/4 pound Romano cheese, 1/4 pound Parmesan cheese, 1 quart whole milk, plus more if needed, 1/2 teaspoon finely chopped garlic, 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1/2 teaspoon ground mustard, salt, pepper, cayenne, paprika, butter. (It is not necessary to grate the cheeses. They can be chopped or cut into tiny pieces.)

Cook spaghetti in rapidly boiling salted water until just under tender. Drain immediately. Add a lump of butter and shake spaghetti until butter coats all of it. Now grease a large casserole or baking dish (at least 2-quart size). Place garlic, Worcestershire sauce and mustard on bottom.

Place a layer of spaghetti in casserole. Sprinkle generously with all of the cheeses. Season with salt, pepper, cayenne (very

Cherry Pie Crescendo Reached In Contest

CHICAGO, Feb. 22—(AP)—The art of creating delicious cherry pies reached its annual crescendo today.

Twenty maids with 20 pies went into the final round of the 1950 national cherry pie baking contest. Scene of the dough-rolling, crust-crumping and general bustle was the grand ballroom of the Morrison Hotel.

All the contestants are pie champions in their own states. The National Red Cherry Institute, which is footing the bill, has underwritten their expenses for the trip to Chicago.

The list of pie baking contestants includes Betty Zimmerman, Berlin Heights, (Erie county) Ohio.

JUNIOR THIMBLE FINGERS
Members of the Junior Thimble Fingers 4-H club will meet Tuesday evening in the basement of the Washingtonville Methodist Church for a "Mothers Tea." Any mother, whose daughter is 10 years old, interested in the 4-H program, is invited.

Mrs. James Pendry, assistant home demonstration agent, will explain 4-H projects and will show slides of the 1949 style revue.

Pomona Grangers Meet At Mt. Nebo

Pomona Grange met at 10:30 a. m. Saturday in Mt. Nebo Grange Hall, with Pomona master, Charles Morlan, presiding. Two members were obligated in the Pomona degree, and business matters were discussed.

Mt. Nebo Grange served a cafeteria dinner to the visitors. Mrs. Helen Hum of Greeley Grange, who is the Pomona lecturer, had charge of the program.

Mary Livingston of Perry Grange played two violin solos, "Kiss Me Again" and "Moonlight Waltz." A quartette from Mt. Nebo Grange, composed of Mrs. Clifford Aiken, Mrs. Howard Wilhelm, H. V. Zimmerman and Mr. Bartholow sang "The American Prayer," accompanied by S. D. Bailey.

Maynard Faloon favored with a humorous reading. The Midway Quartette, composed of Tom Cope, Alton Brinker, Ben Weingart and Paul Zimmerman sang "A Street Urchin's Melody" and "By the Light of the Silvery Moon."

A playlet, "Going Home to Father," was given by Gladys Webber and Guy Frantz. Richard Sittler, who was the youth delegate to Ohio State Grange, gave an account of the youth program there.

A vocal solo was presented by Robert Huffman of Elkrun

THIS ATTRACTIVE COUNTRY HOME IS THE FINEST BARGAIN ON TODAY'S MARKET!

Located on main highway in splendid neighborhood just five miles from Salem. This is a beautiful home, is nearly new and offers many features not usually found in its price class. Of frame construction, it has five rooms and bath on first floor with two more very attractive bedrooms on completely finished second floor. For a small family the house is essentially a bungalow, it offers additional room on the second floor for necessary expansion when entertaining guests. This home is well constructed and very nicely planned. The floors are hardwood downstairs and the bath is attractively tiled.

An unusually fine basement with hot air furnace, all in tip-top shape. This basement is very deep, fully cemented with eight inches of concrete and attractively painted. This home is insulated overhead, is equipped with combination storm windows and is situated on a lot 140 ft. by approximately 200 ft. This lot is nicely landscaped, an excellent stand of grass well started.

Any one who is sincerely interested in a really good country home at a very moderate cost, should arrange to see this one without delay. It is a new listing and soon will be in the hands of a new owner. Must be shown by appointment only. Price $10,500
